Dedication

TO OUR PARENTS:

We take this means of expressing our gratitude for the countless ways in which you have thus far helped us along life's path.

We are truly thankful for all of your love and guidance, which have fitted us to take our place in the world; for your loyal support and encouragement, which have strengthened us whenever we have faltered; for your endless patience and sacrifices, which have made our lives more pleasant;, and for your having made possible our education by paying the taxes to maintain the schools and by boosting us on to do our best.

To you we humbly dedicate this 1954 "Memoirs".

Class Poem

Once we were just little tots
Racing over the grounds of T.W.H.S.--
A place never to be forgotten
As our road leads uphill to success.

In these halls we've had great times;
Sports, teachers, and even studies have been fun.
And if we had another chance,
Back to T-W we would come!

To those who have gone before us,
We give thanks for guiding us on our way;
And to those we've left behind,
Take our advice and listen to what we say.

We would like to thank the teachers
For giving us the knowledge we need.
We know we sometimes gave trouble,
But for us, they did a good deed.

We hope we've made a good example
For those who have yet to come,
Because this is the goal we've tried to reach
Through teachers, studies, and through fun.

Now we go out into the world
Searching for success which lies ahead;
We'll try to make our country proud of us
As along life's path we tread.

Class Prophecy

Have you ever gazed into a crystal ball? Just for fun, let's brave a look into one such ball, and into the future. Ready? Here we go--

The time is 1964. The scene is the lobby of a huge international airport in Southern California. I have a few minutes to kill while waiting for the plane to N.Y., where I have a singing engagement, when the "Private" sign on a door catches my eye, and curiosity getting the better of me, I peek inside. There I see none other than my former classmate, George Van Dootingh. He tells me he is the owner of this colossal airport, and volunteers to show me around. In the mechanics department I see another familiar face--that of Neale Shinsky, who is the head mechanic here. The warning comes over the loud speaker that it's time to board the superjet so I bid a fast farewell to George and Neale and start for the gate. In my haste I bump into someone--why it's Lois Thayer, who has just returned from her missionary journey to Asia and who is also bound for N.Y.

On boarding the plane, we are greeted by the stewardess, Mary Lee Johnson and the pilot, Bob Carey. We take our seats only to find that sitting across the aisle are two old friends, Bill Simpkinson and Lois Bonner. Bill, now a famous T.V. star, is returning to N.Y. after a short visit with commercial artist, Glenn Gibson, at his mansion on the coast. Lois is his secretary. Looking out the window, I see below a great ranch. Bill tells me this belongs to former classmate, Jim Fulton. Near it is Nevada's largest and most elaborate gambling house, owned and operated by Norman Welch.

Our plane develops turbine trouble, and we are forced to make a landing at a small college town in the midwest. While we are waiting for the difficulty to be ironed out, we decide to look over the campus, and whom should we see coming out of the college office but Verna Smith, secretary to the President of this fine institution. She is just taking a minute out for a cup of coffee, and suggest we join her. On the way we learn that three other former classmates--Mary Molesky, Marlene Todd, and Fred Palmer--are on the faculty here. Mary is head of the English department, Marlene is the dietician, and Fred is the head basketball coach. Upon reaching the coffee shop we are surprised to see that the owner, manager, and cook is Helen Schamp. She tells us that we just missed seeing Jackie McCardell, Bonny Geist, and Janet Todd. Jackie runs a beauty salon, and Bonny is her manicurist. Janet is married and lives not far from the shop. We hate to leave our friends but the engine has been repaired and we continue on our way once more.

Not long after we land, we are met by reporter, Esther Hughes. She has to cover the docking of the great Atlantic atomic cruiser, the "R.H.", owned by another T-W personality, Richard Hadfield. We get there just in time to see big-game hunter, Richard Bush, as he returns home from his perilous expedition in the jungles of Africa, the famous band leader, Bob Burke, returning after a sensational engagement at the Palladeum in London, and the celebrated pro-tennis player, Ellen Dickman, who just walked away with the world championship. They suggest that we all get together for dinner at Tom Horton's luxurious resort, situated a little ways upstate on the foot of a mountain and overlooking a lovely lake.

That evening we arrive at Horton's and are greeted by the head waiter, Larry Becker. He leads us to our table and glancing around the fabulous dining room, we spy Mona Wolfe, Shirley Riley, and their husbands, who are on a two-week vacation, and Jean Molesky, who is one of the country's foremost interior decorators. Just as they join us, we hear "Why hullo you all!". and striding across the room come Texas oil tycoons, Dick Mahl, and John Treiber, accompanied by private detective, Jack Graves. Just in the midst of this happy reunion, however, the crystal ball fades and vanishes. It was all our imagination--or was it?

Class Will

We, the Class of 1954, of Townsend-Wakeman school, situated in the town of Wakeman, county of Huron, and State of Ohio, being of pretty sound mind and body, and realizing that our days at T-W are swiftly coming to and end, do hereby assert this to be our last will and testament. The following provisions are to be carried out as indicated and are to be handled with care.

I, Larry Becker, will my mustache to Ronnie Link, and to Earl Sengstock, nothing.
I, Lois Bonner, will my bookkeeping ability to anyone who needs it, and my ability to keep out of trouble to the Junior boys.
I, Marcia Buckley, will my used (?) flute music to Pat Eungard, my broken test tubes to the next Chemistry class, and my mathematical ability to the General Math Class.
I, Robert Burke, will my beat baritone to anyone who collects scrap.
I, Richard Bush, will my ability to go steady with one girl to Bill Bailey.
I, Robert Carey, will my ability to keep the dents out of my car to Don Cokely.
I, Ellen Dickman, will my ping-pong ability to my brother, Russy.
I, Jim Fulton, will my ability to behave in class to anyone who wants it.
I, Bonny Geist, will my ability to cook and sew to Sammy Herrington.
I, Glenn Gibson, will my voice to Cal Canfield, and my ability to stay away from girls to Bill Jackson.
I, Jack Graves, will my arguments with Bach to my brother, Don.
I, Richard Hadfield, will my curly hair to Charles Skinn.
I, Thomas Horton, will my ability to get along with people and not to make enemies to Cal Canfield.
I, Esther Hughes, will my driving ability to anyone who can handle it.
I, Mary Lee Johnson, will my ability to get good grades to anyone who can use it, and my jokes to the Jr. girls.
I, Richard Mahl, will my ability to drive slowly (80) to Norman Hooker.
I, Jacquelyn McCardell, will my sense of humor to Carl Gerber, and my place in the cafeteria to anyone who likes to eat.
I, Jean Molesky, will my short hair to Judy Stryker and Gail Mitchell.
I, Mary Molesky, will my quiet disposition to four Junior girls.
I, Fred Palmer, will my ability to take out girls (hardly used) and my basketball ability to Carl Gerber.
I, Shirley Riley, will my cheerleading suit and the best of luck to the cheerleader who takes my place in the Varsity group.
I, Helen Schamp, will my place in the cafeteria to anyone who wants it.
I, Neale Shinsky, will my ability to play ping-pong to Clifford Sabin.
I, Bill Simpkinson, will my acting ability to David Fletcher, and my size to Jim Robinson.
I, Verna Smith, will my shorthand ability to Juanita Bush, and my scholastic ability to any laboring underclassman who needs it.
I, Lois Thayer, will my ability to make speeches to Charles Skinn.
I, Marlene Todd, will my German book to Bette Becker, and my ability to co-operate to Donna Mitchell.
I, Janet Todd, will my ability to get along with Miss Pursell to Nancy Stentz.
I, John Treiber, will my height to Bill Shupe, and my bashfulness to Ronnie Clouse.
I, George Van Dootingh, will my ability to get along with Mr. Hill to the Junior girls, and my chemical concoctions to anyone who is crazy enough to take them.
I, Norman Welch, will my ability to get along with Bach to the Junior Ag class, and my ability to sleep in Gov. to next year's class.
I, Mona Wolfe, will the best of luck to the person that fills the vacancy I leave in the Varsity cheerleading group.
We, the Seniors, will our ability to raise money for the class trip to the Juniors, our ability to have quick class meetings to the Sophomores, and our dignity in studyhall to the Freshmen.

Witnessed:
Mr. R.R. Hadfield
Mr. James Boyden.

Signed, sealed, and delivered,
The Class of '54

Class History

One bright September morning of 1943, at the unconsolidated schools of Townsend and Wakeman, we, as a new class of first graders, were beginning our way up the ladder of success. Wakeman's first and second grades were under the guidance of Miss Elmes, and the students of Townsend under Mrs. Ada Ross.

As we advanced to the third and fourth grades, Mrs. Elizabeth Merrilees, of Townsend, and Miss Anne Cooley, of Wakeman, did their best in trying to further our education.

Next, we journeyed to the fifth and sixth grades, under Mrs. Alice Stacey as the Townsend teacher, and Miss Helen Brucker, from Wakeman.

Then we were in Junior High, enjoying changing classes with the rest of the high school, under the supervision of Mrs. Chandler at Townsend, and Mr. Scott at Wakeman during the seventh grade, and with Mrs. Findley and Mrs. Calhoun during the eighth.

As Freshmen, we continued along the way, helped by the untiring efforts of our teachers, Mr. Burkle at Townsend, and Mr. Brumby at Wakeman.

In our Sophomore year we were very excited by the news that Wakeman and Townsend had been joined together, which made our class consist of forty-five eager students, with our advisors, Miss Meacham and Mr. Jenks. An exciting day in our Sophomore year was the day we ordered our class rings.

We began our Junior year by showing off our new rings. Our play, "Finders Creepers", was a big success. We continued through the year under the watchful eye of Mr. Bachelder to that exciting event, the Jr. and Sr. Prom, which was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Norwalk on May 15.

Our graduating class this year contains thirty-two students. Of these, we have nine charter students of Wakeman and six from Townsend. They are: Robert Burke, Glenn Gibson, Jack Graves, Jean Molesky, Mary Molesky, Janet Todd, Marlene Todd, Neale Shinsky, Mona Wolfe, Jim Fulton, Dick Mahl, Shirley Riley, Lois Thayer, John Treiber, Bill Simpkinson. Others who joined the class along the way are: Richard Hadfield, third grade; Bonny Geist, fourth grade; Esther Hughes, fifth grade; Lois Bonner and Jackie McCardell, sixth grade; Norman Welch, seventh grade; Marcia Buckley, Bob Carey, Helen Schamp, and Verna Smith, eighth grade; Tom Horton, ninth grade; Larry Becker and Fred Palmer, tenth grade; Dick Bush and Ellen Dickman, eleventh year; and Mary Lee Johnson and George Van Dootingh, Senior year.

We are now looking forward to our class trip to Washington D.C. and New York city, with our advisors, Mr. James Boyden, and Mr. R.R. Hadfield.

Even before school started, the football team began practice sessions; this year under Mr. Boyden and Mr. Hill. The opening game was played here on Friday afternoon, Sept. 18, against Vermilion. Vermilion's more seasoned squad handed the fellows a 27-0 defeat, but they kept practicing, playing, and improving. Although they lost some pretty close contests, they triumphed over Lodi 18-13 to wind up the season.

The basketball squad got off to a late start this year due to football and though losing their first game to Birmingham 28-43, they went on to swamp Berlin Hts. 64-42. After a four game slump, the boys again picked up steam and chalked up victories for the next six out of seven games. They dropped two games to Monroeville and New Haven and though playing a terrific game, lost to North Fairfield to close the season with an 8-11 record.

During the Christmas holidays, Wakeman, Milan, Berlin Hts., and Vermilion participated in a holiday tournament. The T-W squad whipped Berlin Hts. the first night but were out played 55-38 by Vermilion in the finals. At the Huron Co. tournament held at New London, Wakeman drew a bye for the first round, and lost a heart-breaker to New London 37-38 in the semi-finals. New London slipped by Monroeville 47-45 to win the tournament.

Seniors led the scoring this year. Fred Palmer dropped in 273 points, Larry Becker 135, and Bob Carey 134. Other Seniors who will be leaving the team are: Bob Burke, Dick Mahl, and John Treiber.

The Reserve team, under Mr. Boyden, had a terrific season. Led in scoring by Garry Tillson, with 175 points, Jim Robinson with 135, and Bill Jackson with 87, they tromped over their opponents to end up with a 13-3 record.
